SENATOR LA FOLLETTE HAS PNEUMONIA

LABOR MINISTRY FACES EMERGENCY IN TRANSIT STRIKE

MAY CLASH WITH MANY SUPPORTERS OVER
DRASTIC STEP.
COUNCIL CALLED

Subway Men Expected to Join Tram and Bus Team as Clouds Gather.

(By Associated Press)
London—So seriously does the government regard the situation created by continuance of the tram and bus strike and the apparently inevitable end of the subway men into the fight tonight, that, according to several newspapers, that a privy council has been called for today to consider proclaiming a "condition of national emergency."

Some papers say that issuance of the proclamation already has been decided upon, and that the meeting has been summoned, that the king's formal consent may be given. The king has gone to Knowsley for the Grand National sweepstakes tomorrow and it is stated that the privy council will meet there.

If a state of emergency is proclaimed, it will be under the provisions of the emergency powers act of 1920, which, when invoked, confers on the government virtually the same powers as war time defense of the realm act.

It enables the government, subject to the approval of parliament, to make wide and compulsory provisions for the safety and life of the community, including taking over control of any public service, using army and navy forces therefore and commanding private vehicles and materials for the same purpose. The act was put into operation during the miners' strike of 1920.

Such a step would bring the present labor government into conflict with a large section of their supporters, whose opposition to the act is well known.

The famous Bryan "Pacifist"—
A sending-off speech to us—and the true cause of the Bryan regeneration.

President Wilson issued from his headquarters at Long Branch, N. J., a statement in reply to an inquiring telegram from Walter Lippmann, then one of the editors of the "New Republic." Mr. Wilson said:

"In reply to the telegram, let me say, that the statement made by Senator La Follette is untrue. No postscript or amendment of the Lusitania note was ever written or contemplated by me, nor except such changes that myself insisted, was submitted, and I emphasized, the protest. This was suggested after the note was ready for transmission that an intimation be conveyed to the German government that a proposal for arbitration would be acceptable, and one member of the cabinet spoke to me about it, but it was never discussed in any meeting and no trace of any resignation was

CHURCH DANCE IS REBUKED BY MANNING

(By Associated Press)

New York—Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York today informed the Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie, rector of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, that his church would remain "without Episcopalian visitors" if the ministry of the church were refused to discontinued cymbalistic dancing in connection with services at the church.

The vatican recently requested the British government to intervene in behalf of Archbishop Zepplin and other Catholic prelates imprisoned in Russia at the coming Russo-British conference in London.

The matter was ready for transmission that an intimation be conveyed to the German government that a proposal for arbitration would be acceptable, and one member of the cabinet spoke to me about it, but it was never discussed in any meeting and no trace of any resignation was

H. C. Hemmingway, Court House, wanted to attract attention to his auction sale, at which time he desired to sell live stock, farm machinery, implements, etc.—so he let Janesville know all about it through a Gazette classified ad.

Bird House Contest Opens on Monday

(Special to the Gazette)

PONCARE, URGED TO STAY, CONFERS WITH STATESMEN

(Special to the Gazette)

Whitewater—Fire broke out in the Whitewater high school Thursday afternoon and was still burning at 3 p. m. At that hour it had eaten up through the roof but was believed under control. The fire department was fighting a blaze at the Charles Gilbert house when the flames were discovered near the new chimney at the high school, 100 feet away. The fire department left the Gilbert fire and rushed to the school building. All pupils escaped when the girls yelled, "Fire."

Houses must be properly tagged with name, school, age of maker and price if for sale.

Now be sure and get the houses in Monday. Every entrant will be given something—a beautiful bird picture suitable for framing will be given to each person entering the contest.

This ought to be the most interesting bird house display presented in Janesville.

Charles Church, born in Afton, perishes in Oregon Blaze.

In an effort to save his friend, Gus Purin, Charles P. Church, 36, born on a farm near Afton, and a relative of J. T. Waggoner, this city, was burned to death, Mar. 19, in his home in Portland, Ore., his charred body being found in the ruins of the church residence.

The fire, which destroyed the church home, started at 5 a. m. on Mar. 18, while a group of children, whose parents occupied the downstairs of the house, rushed down to investigate. It is thought that he was aroused and instead of attempting to leave the house alone, tried to smother Mrs. Purin.

Charles Church was born on a farm in this vicinity and when he was prominent in business for half a century. He was a contractor, having built the Esmond House as Portland in which President Grant stayed during his trip around the world. PLAN EXCHANGE

(By Associated Press)

Washington—Poyncaré by the federal reserve board of a study designed to suggest practicable method of stabilizing international exchange and extension of the service of the department of agriculture, has recommended upon President Coolidge as two acts in an administration farm relief program.

"Trucks operated daily in this state but housed in Illinois at night must be registered in Wisconsin," the opinion stated.

Even though such trucks be registered in Illinois, they must be registered in Wisconsin, said Poyncaré for more than 10 days continuous work in Wisconsin. It was held, that the opinion of the state's attorney general, Frank C. Murphy, was correct.

Daugherty Probe

(By Associated Press)

Washington—Basic Stinson, divorced wife of Jess Smith, spent an hour on the witness stand today under cross examination by counsel for Attorney General Daugherty. A large portion of the time was taken by the attorney general in questioning the lawyer.

Frank Hordern and former Senator Chamberlain for Mr. Daugherty insisted that the witness should tell the names of the men who she said Jess Smith told her made $32,000,000 in dealing in oil stocks. The committee, which had ruled the names irrelevant, became entangled in arguments about it and the witness refused to answer further questions.

"It is time for me to make a stomp speech," interjected Senator Ashurst. "You are anxious to put us into a trap, where we will be charged by smearing the name of a man now dead. Though our footprints are dogged by you, and by night, this man, not without us, into his trap."

The committee, ordered Mr. S. P. Daugherty, brother of the attorney general, summoned by the secessionists when he failed to appear in answer to a summons. Senator Wheeler said he had been served.

"We don't know who these five people are and we care less," Senator Chamberlain said. "We assume the committee wants the truth. My impression is that she is going to say she is the president of the United States. Now, when the fact is this."

Senator Wheeler said it was not fair in view of the fact that every member of this committee is under oath to the republican national committee.

INOCULATE SEED OF LEGUME CROPS

FARM MEETINGS

March 20—All day meeting of Spring Valley Farm Bureau and Daleyville's association. Orthocarpic, H. E. Moore and others speak.

Saturday, March 20—Fourth annual Janesville High school, Prof. Leo Briggs to lecture on soy beans.

The cane you win is the cane you carry away!

A rather doubtful name of chance and yet that is exactly the game that the farmer who sows his good legume seed without the proper bacteria is playing. There is a chance that some strong bacteria which may be in the soil will hit the seed, but for that one chance there are about 19 chances that it won't.

If a farmer decides a good even stand of clover, alfalfa, or other legume which will draw a large part of the plant food necessary for its growth from the air, he should sow not only the proper seed but also the proper bacteria adapted to this particular crop, says a bulletin recently issued by the Rock County Experiment Station. Dr. Fred and A. L. Whiting of the Wisconsin college of agriculture. The purpose of treating the legume seed with the bacteria before planting is to insure the young seedling the bacteria which will form little nodules on the roots so that the plant can draw the nitrogen from the air.

Help Nature Out

According to Fred, legumes will grow and develop these nodules from the air, nitrogen in the atmosphere, but in these days of high priced land, when everything is being done to help nature in the production of beautiful crops, the safest way is to supply the seed with the bacteria when planting.

In some parts of this country," says Fred, "hand left unattended will not produce a good stand of legumes. This method of sowing a stand is not profitable because considerable time is required for the production of a pasture. The planting of legumes without treating with bacteria is similar to this hit-or-miss system of securing a pasture.

"In fields which are reseeded the best stand of legumes is secured by inoculating just as the soil naturally develops a crop of wild legumes. If the legume is not inoculated the nodule-forming bacteria naturally present in the soil in small numbers may come in contact with the roots of the legume and thus they may be formed in a small amount of what is termed natural infection. But Wisconsin farmers cannot afford to wait for this to occur."

BRIGGS' LECTURE

SATURDAY NIGHT IS ON SOY BEANS

Prof. George Briggs, of nation-wide fame, is the speaker for the fourth meeting of the Rock county Farmers' short course to be held at the high school here Saturday night. Dr. C. N. Shultz of the Rock County Farm Bureau and L. E. Jackson, agriculture instructor of Janesville high school, are making arrangements for Briggs' meeting.

INOCULATE YOUR SOIL

Nitrogen is the most expensive of the plant food elements if purchased in fertilizers. It is lost from soils in large amounts through leaching and from rains and winds. More than one element is however amounts than other elements of plant food. Inoculated legumes afford the most practical and most economical means of supplying nitrogen for farm use.

The bacteriology department of the Wisconsin college of agriculture has already received over 200 orders for bacteria for spring. These include bacteria for the sowing of alfalfa, sweet clover, soy beans, red clover, field peas. The orders for the canning peans are handled separately. Last year the department filled more than 6,000 orders averaging eight bottles to each order. It is to be expected that the orders this year will be even larger in amount than those last year. Many order cards have been requested from the department by the county agents and various agricultural organizations throughout the state.

However, Lodge Goes Out One Door as Daugherty Enters Another.

Washington—Harry Daugherty went in one door and Henry Cabot Lodge went out the other. Thus might the visit of the attorney general and the replacement of one member of the cabinet by another be described. For a few brief moments the new paper men sat in silence, then known who was sponsoring Page was brought out. Morrison's record of having alienated all who through his heavy taxes and thus losing the wet votes, of which we regret say, there are still quite a number, was commented upon. It seemed to be the opinion that a vote for Morrison meant a vote for law enforcement and a vote against him meant that you were a traitor to dry principles.

However, the women candidates for many different causes, and while no one mentioned it, how ever is going to vote they are all of one mind, that women have a place in the government and if they secure the office for which they are running they will give it earnest, efficient service.

It seemed to be the opinion that a vote for Morrison meant a vote for law enforcement and a vote against him meant that you were a traitor to dry principles.

However, the women candidates for many different causes, and while no one mentioned it, how ever is going to vote they are all of one mind, that women have a place in the government and if they secure the office for which they are running they will give it earnest, efficient service.

LAURA SAGE JONES,

President of the Women's Civic League of Janesville.

It was decided that the women candidates for office should be invited to speak at the W. C. T. U. meeting where the fact known well was sponsoring Page was brought out. Morrison's record of having alienated all who through his heavy taxes and thus losing the wet votes, of which we regret say, there are still quite a number, was commented upon. The idea that if a man stands out for such law all who recognize that as a big issue, and all W. C. T. U. members should stand squarely with him and back him to the last ditch in spite of the great and dire scenes thrown out to cover the attack against law enforcement.

FIRST VOTES BY MAIL RECEIVED

Many Applications Made for Permission to Vote in Advance of April 1.

Some 30 applications for ballots to be voted by mail have been received so far by the city clerk, the requests coming from Janesville residents visiting in four other states—California, Georgia, Illinois and Oregon.

The first ones to actually cast their votes by mail are Charles E. Richter, 715 McKinley street, 2nd precinct of the Fourth Ward; and Edward P. Schoenfeld, 441 Madison street, 1st precinct of the First Ward. Many more are expected this week.

Those who voted by mail in advance of the election last Tuesday are electors who expect to be absent from the city on election day on account of business, or unable to attend on election lines. Application for ballots should be made at the city clerk. No mail ballots will be issued on election day, the last day of voting by mail being Monday, March 24.

There will be four ballots handed the voter in the April 1 election in Janesville. One will contain the names of candidates for councilman, supervisor, school commissioner. A second will be a ballot on the referendum to increase the tax assessment to $750 a year. The third will be the presidential preference primary and national convention delegate ballot; and the fourth, judicial ticket, including candidates for supreme, circuit and Beloit municipal court.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL AGAIN IN ACTION

Teachers' training department was housed in the lecture room in the basement of the city library and the other halls were being used for class rooms. The complete departure of Mr. Macmillin in the Kilbans of Columbus hall. Teachers and students have entered into the new circumstances with a cheerful attitude and teachers were using the lecture method of recitation, in the absence of text books. Books and supplies have been ordered by Supt. Macmillin and are expected soon.

Appreciation Expressed.

Meeting Wednesday afternoon in special session, the board of education passed a resolution of thanks for the work of the Jefferson and Fort Atkinson fire departments and expressed appreciation for the promptness and thoroughness with which Supt. Macmillin set about to reorganize the school for the remaining nine weeks of the school year. The plans were outlined for the teachers at a meeting Wednesday afternoon, called by Supt. Macmillin.

A plan of action to secure construction of a new high school on the ruins of the old will be outlined in the near future, and George J. Kispert, president of the board of education, will appoint a citizen's committee to assist the board in reorganizing the best method of procedure. Mr. Kispert said it is a matter that must be dealt with wisely and carefully.

Teacher Last to Go.

To stop "idle rumor and gossip" concerning any connection between the fire and the presence in the building, Tuesday night, of high school students, Supt. Macmillin issued the following statement:

"From 7 o'clock until 9 o'clock in the evening, the high school students have been in the east of the opera house under the direction of Miss Mosel and Miss Weiss. Mr. Macmillin was there to see that the pupils were orderly and stayed in the one room during the rehearsal. The practice was over at 9. Almost all of the students then left. Miss Mosel then took the room of the public quarter and the orchestra into the assembly room to practice with the piano accompaniment. Miss Weiss took a small group of dancers and worked in the auditorium. After seeing that everything was all right all over the building, Mr. Macmillin went home. After Miss Macmillin finished her work, she and the students left for home. After Miss Weiss finished with the dancers, she sent them home and then remained a short time in her own room, two high school girls remaining with her. About 10:30 she completed her work and started home."

"After getting outside of the building, she thought a light had been left burning and went back to investigate. She went through the boiler room and manual training room and back through the first floor halls and found everything in order and no lights burning anywhere. She then discovered that the light was caused by a reflection on the panes from the outside."

Supt. Macmillin stated that he made this explanation to show that the building was carefully inspected at least as 10:30 Tuesday night.

AERIAL LADDER DUE NEXT MONTH

Self-Raising Apparatus, from Joliet, Arrives in Few Weeks.

Following a check-up on the equipment contained on the Joliet fire department's 75-foot self-erecting aerial ladder apparatus Wednesday, City Manager Henry Traxler returned to Janesville at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, announcing that the Joliet truck will be delivered to this city between April 15 and May 1. Mr. Traxler was accompanied by his attorney, City Attorney Roger G. Chundrum, who went on private business.

The manager's investigation disclosed that the Joliet truck bears practically every piece of equipment contained on the standard American La France aerial ladder outfit being sold today. Besides the 75-foot self-erecting ladder, the truck contains:

One 45-foot rapid hoist rope and pull extension ladder; 1 32-foot single ladder; and other single ladders as follows: 28, 24, 20, 16 and 12 feet. Other equipment includes 2 crooked poles, 2 wall picks, 2 crow bars, 2 shovels, 1 wire cutter, 1 door opener, 1 in roof cutter, 1 battering ram, 2 pitchforks, 2 No. 2 Babcock fire extinguishers, 4 dry department lanterns, 4 rubber buckets, wrenches and crank wheel.

Joliet's new American La France truck will be delivered April 15, when that city will be able to release the truck bought by Janesville for $1,000 and the present 50-foot outfit. The city's White truck will be sent to Milwaukee for equipping it with a fire department cab, fenders, running board, starter and motor, and repairing it. It will then be delivered to Milwaukee where the aerial ladder will be mounted on it, replacing the present worn-out tractor which Joliet has been using to haul the vehicle.

Judge of the Twelfth Circuit.

The most important office to be filled at the election April 1, is that of judge of the twelfth circuit. Other offices of an administrative character require good citizens to fill them but such officials may be taken from any walk in life without previous training or technical education. We are extremely jealous of the good name of our courts.We look upon them as the very solid foundation of our system of government. They must be kept free from the trickery of politics, entangling alliances with any class, disassociated from party and the bench filled with men of dignity, legal-bearing, and capability. They are constantly being presented with questions of serious moment to decide. The judge of the twelfth circuit is not merely a police magistrate to try petty offenders or hear criminal cases. He has far more to do in cases brought under the civil statutes wherein rights of persons in property are involved, and other important questions growing out of the relations in community life are regularly before the court.This circuit embraces three of the most important counties of the state—Rock, Jefferson and Green. They are rich, largely populated and prosperous and the percentage of criminal cases is small compared with what some of the circuits of the state confront. In the county of Rock the two municipal courts of Janesville and Beloit take care of all minor criminal cases and the Beloit court is empowered to handle much of the more complicated litigation which heretofore was sent to the circuit court.We have had an excellent record in the circuit court of the twelfth district. True, there has been now and then some criticism. "No rogue ever feels the bitter draw with good opinion of the law." Much of the criticism of the circuit court comes from those who feel that they were given too severe sentences when the circuit court has functioned as a criminal court. But the taxpayers have been saved many thousands of dollars by the settlement of civil cases out of court made possible by the aid of the judge in bringing the contesting parties together. That is an item to be remembered.It is well also to inquire into relationships of candidates for the bench with those who are behind the movement for such candidacy. Are they political or factional, or are they made up of the element which frequently is called upon to stand in front of the judge and receive sentence or sit in the chair of the accused? Is that influence and support made up largely of those who see in restrictive statutes something to defy and break?
If so it is well to see that this candidate is not presented with your assistance at the polls.There seems to be no good reason to make a change in the bench of the twelfth circuit this year. In legal knowledge, in capability, in those other qualifications which lend dignity to our courts, or for any other reason, no candidate has presented himself for the non-partisan judicial election in the twelfth circuit, to be voted upon at the election April 1, whose claims are of such a character as to warrant or give reason for a change in the judgeship.Frank Munsey says that one newspaper is enough for any man and he owes two.
♦ ♦ ♦A resignation at 10 o'clock in the morning became something else Wednesday evening, with Raymond Poincaré, premier of France. In the morning he had resigned and declared it was final. In the evening he had been influenced by President Millerand to try again to make up a cabinet. In France, as in most of the countries under the British parliamentary plan, defeat of a government measure is a defeat of the premier.
After having run the gauntlet of every fierce battle for two years, Poincaré was defeated on a minor bill, one of not so very great significance, in a Chamber of Deputies, where only a part of the membership was present. But it nevertheless was as final under the general rule as though it had been on some greater legislative act.Now that Poincaré is to try again for a new cabinet he may fare better or worse. Whatever may be said of his administration, it must be admitted that he has never once overlooked the fact that, to him, France was first in his mind.
He started the invasion of the Rhine, made the Czecho-Slavic peace, removed the army from Syria and its impending entanglements with the Turks, and invited trouble from England when the British failed to support his German policy.Conjecture as to what will happen now is far fetched since the French may do most anything when a crisis appears. It is possible that Poincaré halted the defeat on the minor matter at first as a relief but afterward the confidence expressed by President Millerand must have had weight.
Poincaré and Millerand, according to the French press of the past weeks, have been in none too harmonious accord. The president of France has chafed at the neutralized position he held in the government—figure head much along the same lines as that of the king of Great Britain. Miller-and had said that he intended to take a greater hand in public affairs but had been sat upon by the stronger and more heavily entrenched Poincaré. The critical moment will come in the French premier's life—and no matter whether the president is Poincaré or some other, it will be an equally critical moment—when the Dawes commission makes its report and it is up to the French

EXIT THE SUNDAY SUIT

BY FREDERIC J. HASLICIA.

Washington.—In looking over the situation in the world today one is rather forcibly struck by the passing of an old American institution—the Sunday suit of clothes. Another epoch in our process, or perhaps retrogression, is marked by this phenomenon. It is one of those vague events, the precise date of which can not be set down,
like the passing of head portières. Gibson girls, pompadoured hair and suburban houses in the swiss chateau style. The observer, looking about today, merely notes that these things are gone, but can not say where nor recall just when the momentous if vague exit took place.But the fact remains that the Sunday suit is gone and its absence is worthy of note because it denotes a profound change in the habits of American life. To the vast preponderance of the people, the old-fashioned Sunday also is gone.Undoubtedly there are families in some parts of the country in which the corduroy pants are still being handed down from generation to generation and Sunday suits still are to be found, but they are the exceptions. The Sunday suit no longer is a national institution; it is no more than a survival.To be sure clothes do not make the man, although one can think of a few instances in which they almost did. Beau Brummell built up great influence with the social set of Great Britain because of the variety and gaiety of his costume. But his glory did not endure. The last twenty years of his life were spent in poverty, the result of his debtors' prison.The outstanding case of clothes and the man is that furnished by Perkin Warbeck. He lived in the days of Queen Elizabeth and her successor, King James of England. He was a poor Irishman boy, but he got a job with a clothier in Cork, Ireland. There was some discontent with the King of England and many people thought they would rather have some other member of his family on the throne. Young Perkin had a fame for fine clothes and, working for a clothier, seemed to be able to get them ready.His appearance was so much finer than that of anyone else in Cork that rumor got around to the effect that he was a prince of the blood and should be King. Thus he was in greater in Cork, strengthened this idea. He actually became a pretender to the throne of England, and there were plenty of jealous political opponents of King James who were willing to make trouble and took no care to inquire too insistently into the antecedents of Perkin Warbeck. The young man himself rather enjoyed the experience and so for several years he was the center of a movement but put him on the throne of England. And all because his clothes made him look the part.This is something of a digression from a discussion of the demise of the Sunday suit, but it goes to show that there was a day when without the Sunday suit or something akin to it, a man did not get very far. Everyone remembers the occasion mentioned in the Scriptures when only those who were admitted who wore wedding garments.The passing of the Sunday suit in the United States does not mean, as might be inferred, that the American people are not as well dressed as they used to be. It means precisely the opposite.
It means that, whereas in the period just passed,
the American people were "dressed up" only one day out of seven now they are well dressed every day. There has developed a higher standard of personal appearance among the whole people.The Sunday suit, of course, relates especially to men, but the improvement in personal appearance is applicable to women, too. Fifteen or twenty years ago the silk stocking, for instance, was a rarity; now a cotton stocking is so rare that no mention of the appearance of one is likely to be broadcast on the radio and find pictorial celebration in the rotogravure sections of the Sunday day newspapers.The movement of the rural population to the cities probably has been the chief factor in the disappearance of the Sunday suit. More than half the people now live in cities and an ever increasing portion of this urban population finds employment in white collar jobs. Men in such jobs like to look passing well every day. Even factory workers who labor in overalls do them at the end of the day and go home in neat suits.Formerly, the farmer never wore anything but overalls or corduroy save on Sunday or to attend weddings or funerals, but now the end of the day finds the farmer arrayed just like the city man. Many lawyers are born under this sign.We shake our carpets
And shake our rugs;
And we thus include Pneumonia bugs.A gem is not polished without rubbing nor a man perfected without trials.Learning without thought is labor lost; thought without learning is perilous.

BOASTING.
If I were a boasting man,
To braggadocio inclined,
And I should plainly speak my mind,
Then, little baby, scarcely 10,
I'd do my boasting all of you.I'd praise our beauty to the skies,
I'd swear the sun is brighter than birds,
Which every sunny morning rises,
Have not the sweetness of your words,
I'd make the world believe this, too.I'd tell in languages gilt with style,
The sunbeams dancing on the air,
Have not the witchery of your smile,
Nor such a wealth of charm to spare,
The stars which twinkle in the skies
Envoy the radiance of your eyes.Although disgusting is conceit,
And pride a sorry thing to see,
You're made a swagger of me,
I say it, and I mean it, too.
There never was babe like you.Ten million babies in the land,
Ten million fathers of them proud,
Against the multitude I stand,
And boast your charms to all the crowd!No other quite like you could be,
At least, that's how you seem to me.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1924.

According to astrology Uranus and Venus dominate today to indicate aspect. Early in the morning there are adverse.The Moon is in Capricorn and Saturn goes over the knees and promises good luck to persons in many lines of work. Business, professional, artistic and domestic matters are all subject to good influence.This is read as the luckiest sort of a star for lovers and all who are soon to play leading roles in romances.Venus smiles on all who wed under this planetary rule and gives promises of congeniality and long life together.The weather is mild or yellow today may easily become enthralled and for this reason way bachelors should be extremely cautious.They should make the most of the opportunities that come to them today. They are assured of a growing public interest in the work drama.Motion pictures are subject to a direction of the stars making for many changes that will be beneficial although there may be temporary losses.The stars predict a great advance in color photography which will make old films worthwhile.This is not a good day for signing leases, agreements and contracts and signatures should be withheld until a better rate of the planets.Mars is in an aspect supposed to increase nervousness and irritability and for this reason the temper should be safeguarded.The sway is not beneficial for domestic harmony and increase of divorce is again prognosticated.The stars declare that marriage is to become a different sort of contract from the sacrament of the past and forfeit the most long sought of church battles in all history.Persons whose birthday is in the angularity of a prosperous year, but they must be especially cautious in regard to legal papers. The young will court and marry.Children born on this day may be quick and direct in manner, keen of mind and broad in sympathy. These subjects of Aries should be vigilant, careful and able to win supreme success. Many lawyers are born under this sign.We shake our carpets

At a sudden lightning lit up the scene with a hard green glare and showed Hank's horse running away from its master. Before the thunder had ceased to rumble, Derr was within arm's length of Hank. Derr struck sideways with his gun barrel. Hank had jerked forward, so he would have fallen on his face had Derr caught him in his arms. He eased the unconscious Hank to the ground next the wall, where no chance lightning flash would reveal either of them to the eyes within the house. Expertly Derr bound the boy's hands with his own leather belt and tied his ankles with his gun belt.

Hank groaned and said something to some one about being scared, then, "Hurry up with that rope, Hank!"

"In a shake," replied Derr, muting his voice to his ear sleeve, then breaking the bullet of Hank's gun belt.

Derr struck his face like a spatter of small shot. It was quite dark, the lightning close by and a deafening crash of thunder, followed by the splintering roar of a struck tree falling to earth. Derr made the doorway just as the heavens opened and the rain came down in torrents. He wanted his right for contemplation. In the doorway he stopped. He could see nothing in the kitchen. All was black as a pocket. He asked a question in a whisper.

"Over here!" cried Slim.

Derr moved swiftly in the direction of the sound. The lightning flared again, bathing everything in the kitchen with its hard, green light. Derr saw the bodies of Mom and Thorn lying on the floor, and with two yards of him, Dolly Warren in tight grasp of Slim Hawthorn.

Then the light went out and Derr dropped to his knees. Dally a gun flashed ready above his head. He did not dare fire for fear of hitting the doorway just as the heavens opened and the rain came down in torrents. He wanted his right for contemplation. In the doorway he stopped. He could see nothing in the kitchen. All was black as a pocket. He asked a question in a whisper.

"Over here!" cried Slim.

Derr moved swiftly in the direction of the sound. The lightning flared again, bathing everything in the kitchen with its hard, green light. Derr saw the bodies of Mom and Thorn lying on the floor, and with two yards of him, Dolly Warren in tight grasp of Slim Hawthorn.

"That?" said Dolly in as casual a tone as she could muster. "That? Oh, that's where Slim died little." Mom clutched her shoulders with iron grip. "Cuckoo! My shiny hair, where is it?" Dolly told her soothingly, "He ain't hardly hurt. Let some blood, that's all."

Dinner Stories

This one is rather antiquated, but man still delight in telling it.

The old sea captain who accompanied a tea party, to which his wife had dragged him, stuck against his will by a group of women pestering him for a story from his adventures.

Up and down they scurried. Twice he fell an arm under his sprawling feet, an arm that gave like gun smoke, the hand and Sim's right hand clasped firmly about the waist. Derr sensed his advantage and dashed the other's hand across the oven shelf. The gun cracked on the floor.

Derr's right hand flew to his neck. In the darkness he saw and struck—struck again and again, and each time it took he felt the bone of the bowie knife bite the bone. Slim cried, "I'm coming to you for more help, as you helped me so much the other time I wrote you. My baby is seven months old. I give him the formula you advised. He does not sit up yet. Should he sit up at this age?"

"Also, my sister-in-law's baby, born Feb. 16, and fed five times a day, is good during the day but cries most of the night. Can you tell me what this is?"

Answer

I am delighted that whatever advice I gave you was helpful. The baby should be patient until after the first tooth comes through and he begins to support his head alone. I am unable to remember your particular case. Perhaps the baby needs some more cheese in his diet again. Have

"Deedemon, give me that handkerchief!"

No reply.

"Deedemon, I says—"

"Come on, nigga," said a voice in the gallery, "wipe your nose on your sleeve and let this show go on."

A woman had just learned that her negro charwoman, Aunt Dinah, had at the age of 70 married for the fourth time.

"Why, Aunt Dinah," she exclaimed,

"You haven't married again?"

"Yesum, honey, I has," was Aunt Dinah's smiling reply. "Yesum, as often as de Lawd takes 'em so will I."

PODAY'S TROUBLES

Gardener's Tip—Boil six eggs until barely separated whites from yolks, prepare a white sauce of one tablespoon butter, one of flour and a cup of milk. Season with salt and pepper. Chop whites of eggs fine and add them to the white sauce and pour mixture over squares of toast, put pulverized egg yolks on top and serve hot.

Date Whip—Chop one cup of apples and one cup of dates in food chopper, beat the white of one egg very stiff and fold into the mixed apples and dates.

Filled Fish Balls—Three pounds of fish, one onion, salt, two eggs, two teaspoons sugar, one carrot, pepper, one-half cup bread crumbs or one-fourth cup cracker crumbs, one tablespoon chopped onions. Clean fish thoroughly, remove bones, put fish and carrot through the fish chopper, then add above ingredients to the chopped fish. Make into balls. Take head and bones, three onions, one carrot, put in pot with two or three quarts of water. When boiling gently add fish balls and boil two hours. Season to taste by putting more pepper and salt into the soup.

Cottage-Soup—Take one small hard boiled egg, cut fine, one-half pint vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon prepared mustard, one heaping tablespoon butter. Heat oil, pour over cabbage and let cool. Take one cup sweet milk, one egg beaten, one-half cup cream, one-half cup powdered sugar, one-half cup all together and rock. As soon as it thickens pour over cabbage. Let it get very cold before serving.

Dish Saving Ginger Cake—Break an egg into a cup and stir it up with molasses. Pour into a bowl. Add one-half cup sugar, one-third cup shortening, one cup and 3/4 cups with two well beaten eggs, one-half cup powdered sugar, one-half cup ginger and one-half cup ginger root, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup ginger and one-half cup sugar.

And got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. I had just wanted to lie in bed all the time, and when I started to brush up I would give out in about ten minutes. So you know how badly I fared. I used to go to bed at eight and get up at seven, still tired. Now I can work all day and stay up until eleven, and feel all right all the time. My housework is all right in summer, but in winter I work in the factory. I have told a good many of my friends, and I have had three come to me and tell me they wouldn't do without the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. SAMUEL SCHIRY, 219 Cecil St., Dover, Delaware.

THIS WOMAN RELIEVED FROM SUFFERING

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Remarkable Story

Dover, Del.—"I wish every woman would take your wonderful medicine as it has done so much good to me. I had cramps and faint spells and very bad pains. One day I was over to my neighbor's house and she told me I ought to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I went to the store on my way home and got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. TODAY'S MARKET

Chicago Review. Corn suffered a sharp break in price today soon after the start that it was almost impossible to exact from other dealers until May delivery at pre-arranged limits. May delivery of corn was especially depressed, going under 77c for the first time in a year, and there was no sign of the weather likely to promote round deliveries being a factor in overturning quotations, and so far was cheapness of offerings in the open market, with the result that unchanged figures to be lower, with May at 75c & 77c were followed by an irregular descent all around.

Subsequently, the price of isolated individuals on the part of scattered holders nullified rallies. The close was unsettled, 15c & 15c net lower, May 75c & 75c.

Chicago prices fell in sympathy with corn, but then received better support. After opening at 3c higher off to 4c the gain, May $1.01 & 1.01c, July $1.01 & 1.01c, and so on, and closed about 1c in some cases before beginning to recover.

May and July deliveries of wheat touched new low records, and the market appeared to hold well at $1.01 for May. The close was unsettled, the net lower to 4c, May $1.01 & 1.01c, and July $1.01 & 1.01c.

Oats started at 1c lower, to an equal advance, May 55c & 66c. The latter all the months showed a moderate setback.

High prices in the hog market steadied provisions.

CHICAGO CASH MARKET.

New York—Cotton spot quiet; midday cotton market.

Chicago—Trading in the cheese market yesterday continued very dull. With the market weak and unsettled, fresh cheese imports were slow, just about no change in listed prices, though many dealers offered freely at liberal concessions. As such conditions only served to depress confidence in the market, cured cheese that was not absolutely needed at the moment, it was clearly a buyer's market. Cured cheese was about at a standstill, although prices were well maintained.

Potato Market. Madison—Potatoes Waukesha, Wis., continuing light account condition of market, with shipping slow, market and movement slow, market steady. Carrots, delivered, freight only, delivered, small round whites U. S. No. 1, $1.02 & 1.05 per cwt. Shipments Wisconsin, $1; Minnesota, 16; Michigan, 110.

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.

New York—Ballying tendencies were in evidence at the opening of the stock market, prices throughout the day were generally firm, with a short covering. Rates were in good demand on the strength of the unusually favorable February earnings statement, which was issued yesterday.

Stock prices held fairly well just before noon, when a renewal of selling pressure against Baldwin and a number of the copper merchandisers, and an apprehension of another slight reaction in other parts of the list. Call money opened at 4% per cent. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.
